

Introducing our new COO: Gareth Gammon

Following our National conference this year and in line with the national growth strategy of Jirsch Sutherland (JS) we are extremely pleased to announce the appointment of Gareth Gammon as our Chief Operating Officer (COO).

Gareth Gammon (Chief Operating Officer)

Gareth will be reviewing all operational activities of JS (nationally) and will strategize with the owners of JS and its senior management team to present to our clients and stakeholders a fully integrated national firm with the highest level of consistency over all major business areas including but not limited to HR, Compliance, IT, Precedents, Marketing and Systems.

Gareth comes to JS from the University of Notre Dame where he led a significant administration team whom he guided to deliver organisational and operational change both nationally and internationally. Prior to the University contract Gareth was, for many years the CEO of a mid-size professional services firm in the UK where he developed strong senior leadership teams which managed relationships with customers, employees, advisers, and stakeholders.

Gareth's strengths are engaging internal stakeholders at all levels within an organisation to achieve their goals and developing strong processes, systems and procedures to improve operations. Gareth brings experience and innovative ideas to this new challenge and JS is excited to embrace a fresh approach in a collaborative and considered environment.

JS is committed to ongoing improvement in its approach to business and through this appointment looks forward to continuing to offer an excellent level of expertise and service for the benefit of its clients and partners.
